

Smart Cities Poem

There's a new, new world a comin.....
It's really going to be somethin.....

The Internet of Thingies - inter-operability and AI.
The pronunciation alone is enough to make me cry!

Then there's machine learnin....
For those who don't have a work yearnin..?

When driverless cars soon abound
Will UBER then drive us ALL around?

Will your oven and fridge obey all your orders?
Or decide for themselves - your dietary borders?

This new world of work is changing.
Robots will now do all the slaving.

Encouraging a new world of collaboration.
For the benefit of all our nations.

But are the beaches big enough to take us all?
Will robots pay us not to work at all?

BREXIT or not, in "machines" we will trust.
But what role for the bankers - who once made us bust?

Hasta La Vista Baby - we all thought that was crazy.

Improving our lives with services and apps.
And making us happier folks - PERHAPS!

But people do please listen to me.
This new world is already here - for those that look to see!

The improved quality of life and efficiency.
The promise of the Smart City.

Eat your heart out William.....